Economy
for the Human

The Alliance for the Social Market Economy is a scientific institution which promotes and develops the Social Market Economy.

It was founded and shaped by Alexander Rüstow in 1953. Its actions and activities are in line with the perception that economy is embedded in the entire social order as a component. The major focus is an economy for the human.

Our activities are scientific conferences, public lectures and political economic advice. A major focus is on economic education.

In order to achieve a wide acceptance of the Social Market Economy it is essential to communicate it competently.

Many impulses and different perspectives are required to implement the concept of the Social Market Economy within a dynamic and connected world in a vivid and practical manner.

Therefore, we initiate cooperations between scientists, organize round tables, communicate with decision-makers, enable exchanges of views within working groups and discuss the Social Market Economy with students.
